7/22-7/26: Young Authors Day Camp

WHAT'S GOING ON AT YADC?

At YADC this week, our staff paid special attention to campers who were exemplifying R.O.C.K.S.T.A.R. behavior. Many campers were nominated based on their behavior throughout the week, and two were voted on by their groups. These voted-on authors received the "Rockstar of the Week" awards for their outstanding job acting as role models for their peers.

This week was Time Travel Through Space week at Young Author's Day Camp! The youngest group voted to name ourselves the Puppy Travelers. They spent the week creating stories about time travel, writing poetry about where they come from, and thinking about their future by writing letters to their future selves. On Tuesday, they celebrated Camp Kindness Day by being "kindness spotters" and sharing moments of kindness that they noticed throughout the day. The Puppy Travelers were a positive and creative group, who had so much fun at camp this week!

The middle aged group called themselves the Spicy Avocado Toasts and worked on stories related to time and space. Many of them loved the Snake Rock trip, which included one time period on one side of the rocks, and a different time on the other side. For Camp Kindness Day, they threw a ball to everyone and complimented each camper.

The oldest group named themselves, Ye Spacey Ones, to go along with the weekly theme of Time Travel Through Space. They spent the week with Miss Emily and Miss Carly learning about what constitutes different genres. They also spent time doing peer review to help each other improve their writing. For Camp Kindness Day, each camper reported on small acts of kindness they witnessed and shared their observations aloud at the end of the day.

MEET THE STAFF

Emma Clauss, director, is excited to spend her second summer with YADC. A graduate student in the Literacy Education program at Madonna University and soon-to-be mom, she is a third grade teacher at All Saints in Canton. She can't wait to hear the stories the campers are willing to share.

Mary Margaret Stone, assistant director, holds a Bachelor of Arts and Sciences degree in English and Sociology from Oakland University. She joined Cranbrook in 2007 and is a 1st grade assistant teacher and team leader of Brookside's After School Care program. This is her 5th year at YADC, and she is excited to meet all the campers!

Sarah Hume, counselor, is a sophomore at Denison University studying creative writing and anthropology. She is incredibly excited to work at YADC, because she grew up attending similar creative writing camps which helped her foster her own love of writing and build meaningful relationships with the world around her.

Emily Corwin, instructor, is a writer and teacher from Beverly Hills, Michigan. She has a Masters of Arts with a focus in English and a Masters of Fine Arts in Creative Writing. Her writing has been published widely in literary journals across the country and her book, Sensorium, is forthcoming with the University of Akron Press.

Carly Hittler, counselor, is a college student at Grand Valley completing a degree in education. Her experience with leadership includes two years on Link Crew and several years teaching at Foxwoode Hunt Club's summer horseback riding program, two of which she was the head counselor. She brings a friendly personality and passion for writing to YADC, and is looking forward to a great summer with your children.

Kiera Filbin, instructor, has known she's wanted to be a teacher since she was in first grade. She has been a substitute teacher, camp art instructor, and has worked with children at every possible opportunity. Over the course of the summer, Kiera's goal is to facilitate creative writing activities that will encourage young authors to explore their potential in a supportive environment where personal growth is encouraged.

Katharine Kovan, instructor, is a 4th grade Language Arts teacher in Detroit. As an alumna, she is so excited to get back on Cranbrook's beautiful campus and looks forward to getting to know your young authors very soon!

Sarah Liddy, counselor, has a Bachelor's degree in Psychology and a Minor in Creative Writing. She has three years of experience teaching/tutoring a variety of modes of writing to college students and one year experience as an assistant teacher for elementary school students. She loves working with children and she also loves animals, nature walks, cooking, and poetry.
